

Comparison of ADM & Web Products

For additional information, see www.aseba.org/software.html

Features	ADM	WebForms Direct	Web-Link
Type of Application	PC and Network	Web	Web
Types of forms available for entry	All forms, including old versions	Current CBCL/1½-5, C-TRF, CBCL/6-18, TRF, YSR, ABCL, ASR, OABCL, & OASR	Current CBCL/1½-5, C-TRF, CBCL/6-18, TRF, YSR, ABCL, ASR, OABCL, & OASR
Online administration of forms in Latino Spanish, Dutch, and Italian for CBCL/6-18, TRF, & YSR, and Dutch for CBCL/1½-5, C-TRF, ASR, & ABCL		•
Respondent forms in many languages for completion in paper format and key entry into system are available (forms are sold separately)	•		•
Print forms for paper-and-pencil completion			•
Entry of responses to questions: Directly by Informant (I); Key Entry (K) (Note: The Client-Entry Module requires the ADM Module for Ages 6-18.)	I or K	I	I or K
Provides codes for ethnicity, education, clinician, agency, & user-defined codes	•		•
Security is controlled by user permission levels	•	•	•
Access to forms and output for individuals is limited to specific users	Authorized PC user	•	Can share access
E-unit usage can be tracked by user and user group	N/A		•
Sends e-mail notice when a rating form is completed	N/A	•	•
Respondents complete forms immediately or at their convenience and may use multiple sessions	N/A	•	•
Scoring can be done using U.S. or multicultural norms from many societies for pre-school and school-age forms	•	•	•
Reports include profiles and narratives	•	•	•
Cross-informant and DSM-oriented reports available	•	•	•
Data exportable to statistical packages for analysis	•	•	•
Data can be imported into ADM		•	•
Long-term storage of data	•
Functions are accessed through ASEBA maintained web-sites		•	•